This Pulaski Academy and Central School alumna is an unsung hero during this unprecedented time. Renee Denny is the postmaster for the Pulaski Post Office, who helps ensure important mail still makes it to your home every day.

“I lead by example,” said Denny. “I try to promote a positive and safe work environment in this time of uncertainty. Remaining calm in the middle of this storm has allowed my employees to do the same.”

Denny has reached out to former teachers and fellow community members to make protective masks for employees in her office and neighboring locations as well.

Denny thinks during this time we can all reflect more on who and what we have in our lives.

“Disconnect from the phone and reconnect with the people right next to you,” said Denny. “Go in your backyard and get some fresh air, stay calm, stay positive and mostly stay safe. We will bounce back stronger together.”
